World Wide Fund for Nature- India

(WWF-India)

At a time when the Web of Life has come under increasing threats, WWF-India's attempts have been to find and implement solutions so that human beings can live in harmony with nature, and leave for future generations a world rich in natural resources and natural wonders.

WWF-India is one of the largest conservation organisations engaged in wildlife and nature conservation in the country. Established as a Charitable Trust on November 27, 1969, it has an experience of over five decades now in the field. From a modest beginning, the organisation has been propelled forward by the efforts of its founders and associates who volunteered their time and energy to lend momentum to the conservation movement.

Today, it is recognised as a premier international conservation non-governmental organisation in the country dealing with nature conservation, environmental protection and development-related issues.

To suit India's specific ecological and socio-cultural situation, WWF-India articulated its mission in 1987 as follows:

“The promotion of nature conservation and environmental protection as the foundation for sustainable and equitable development.”

CENTRE FOR ENVIRONMENTAL LAW

The Centre for Environmental Law (CEL) was established in 1993 as an integral part of WWF-India. Apart from handling and furthering WWF-India's conservation work involving policy analysis, campaigning and legal interventions on environmental issues, CEL serves as a resource centre for teaching environmental law and research in national, regional and international contexts.

To implement its programmes, CEL is building functional and professional linkages with government agencies and non-governmental organisations at national and global levels.

One of the principal educational activities of CEL began in 1993 with its flagship Diploma Programme in Environmental Law, which was mainstreamed in 2003 to the Post Graduate Diploma in Environmental Law. More than fifteen hundred participants have benefited from the three-decade-long efforts of the CEL Team at WWF India.
